We have added some great coaches and are looking for a two more to join our growing team. Through a great advertising push a steady stream of players are seeking our help and we need coaches who want to help players improve. Do you want to coach players on all aspects of the game inside where you can use all the advantages of cutting edge technology and outdoors where the game is played? Our coaches have one focus, to make their players better. Share your passion with others who love this game. Join a team of 600 coaches that are committed to growing the game of golf through the use of facts and technology.

Job Description:

Coaching, not teaching - If you are serious about coaching players, really coaching, using tools that allow you to be extremely productive with each player, indoors and outdoors, in a longer term relationship with those players, being a key part of a team of like-minded professional coaches who spurn the quick fix in favor of lasting improvement, then you owe it to yourself to investigate a career with us.

Responsibilities - You will coach clients through long term improvement programs including lessons, equipment assessments and fittings. You will stay in touch with clients, follow up with potential new clients, assist in daily operations and take an active role in various internal and external events, clinics, and marketing opportunities. To be an effective coach, the successful candidate will be comfortable growing relationships, planning long term with client programs and taking a holistic approach to the client's improvement.
