Tri City & South Western Chapter Tour Meeting

Speakers & Bios

Sue Armstrong - Professional Leadership Coach

Sue helps leaders show up as their most authentic selves. When you understand yourself, you can better understand and successfully lead those around you. Create a deeper connection to yourself, appreciate your values, accept blind spots and seek opportunities to grow. This work is transformative, impactful and embraces you personally as well as professionally. You cannot un-remember it.

Dayton Price - College Golf Athlete

Dayton Price was one of the lone survivors of a March 15 head-on bus crash near Andrews, Texas, that claimed the lives of his University of the Southwest golf coach, Tyler James, and six of their teammates: Mauricio Sanchez, Travis Garcia, Jackson Zinn, Karisa Raines, Laci Stone and Tiago Sousa. Chris Dickenson will be joined by Dayton for a one on one to chat about his resilience over the past 10 months.

Rick Young - Golf Journalist

Rick Young is a Woodstock-based business and equipment analyst for SCOREGolf. He is a freelance contributing columnist for the Toronto Star. Rick is an influential voice in Canadian Golf who also writes for MyGolfSpy, is a Public Golf Advocate, and has traveled the world writing and supporting the industry of golf. Join Rick as he chats about the future of the industry, the importance of public golf access, and more.

Mike Martz - PGA of Canada Coach

Mike joined the Ontario Golf Academy with a vast knowledge of the golf swing. Having a Kinesiology degree, coupled with 35 years PGA of Canada experience, has given Mike a sound scientific understanding of human movement and how it could be taught and learned. Mike has been involved with the PGA of Canada in several coaching initiatives including facilitating the Community Golf Coach Program, Coaching Coaches how to conduct age and developmentally appropriate programs and facilitating the “First Tee Level 2” program. He conducted ball striking clinics with Canadian legend Moe Norman over a 16-year span and initiated and conducted clinics for golfers with disabilities and Special Olympians. Mike is Certified to Coach New Competitors and Certified to Coach Developing Competitors (highest available coaching certification). Mike is 1 of 4 Coaches nationwide to hold both certification levels.
